BDS Employee of the Month

Tim Bert

We are proud to announce that Production Manager Tim Bert is the February, 2017 BDS Employee of the Month. Tim has been working for BDS for 15 years, and was as efficient in his interview as he is on the factory floor. "I make sure that everything gets assembled and out the door on time, and on a productive schedule. And I handle any problems that pop up," stated Tim. "I train everybody, and I make sure that everything is running smoothly."

"Tim has experience with virtually every product we've ever built, and he has a great understanding of how our equipment works," says BDS President, Rick Whitman. "He is excellent at troubleshooting and problem solving, and he is extremely reliable. He has such a good grasp of our mechanics, that he can explain things easily, so he is excellent at training people."

"I like working here at BDS. It's fun and interesting, and it's always a great product," says Tim. "I love it. And the people here make it great. Everybody expects a high standard from themselves, and therefore all the product and everything meets a high standard when it leaves the factory floor. It's very satisfying when you see that happen."

"Tim combines knowledge and experience with a can do attitude," states BDS VP of Marketing Jeff Bunker. "He is very responsive to both customer needs and requirements, and factory needs and requirements. Working with Tim throughout the day, I see him as a very good mentor for his co-workers."

"We are always trying to get better and work better, and make a better product, states Tim. "We want to keep it moving forward, and to keep achieving more. And our new products are really good. They look great, and they function really well. Our new LED light, and the new A-3100 series carts are really good looking. They are basically our RD-3100 series put onto a cart top, and into numerous different configurations. And they have really slim lines. The benefit to the doctor is that it is just a better looking product. No matter what you get from BDS, whether it is one of our original designs, or today's line, they will still work the same-incredibly well. But they just keeping getting better and better looking. These new carts are very tidy."

"Tim is a very dedicated employee, and he wants the best outcome for the company," says Customer Service Representative Pam Lawrence. "He is very true to detail, and he does a really good job."

"Tim is a good guy. He's a good team leader, and he's a good supervisor," states Production Manager Maria Hernandez. "He knows a lot about the equipment, and he's really patient when he trains people."

"Tim is a cool guy, he's very focused when he's training people," states Marcus Morrow in production. "He's adept at helping people to learn anything and everything that they need to know, and he's really good at teaching people not to overthink things." not cleanly organized, and it was almost impossible to repair properly."
